

The Water Detectives

English Mood Academy

yellow = new words red = verb + inf. / -ing

Malak and her friend Omar are Sec.1 students. At the morning assembly, the headmaster says, "I want to find people who enjoy helping our school." Malak decides to join.

Their mission is simple: save water. "I hope to make a real impact," says Omar. They decide to form a team called The Water Detectives.

First, they survey every tap and sink in the school. Malak keeps hearing a drip, drip, drip near the lab.

Careful observation shows a big leak under the sink. "We can't avoid fixing this," says Omar.

They record every drop in a notebook. Omar finishes writing the numbers and Malak draws a bright chart.

Their findings are shocking: the school loses 300 litres a day! Malak suggests asking the caretaker for help.

The caretaker agrees to fix the leak and the old fountain in the playground. He promises to check the taps regularly.

Next week, Malak and Omar present their research at the assembly. Everyone stops talking and listens.

"Please remember to turn off the tap," says Malak. "And don't forget to unplug your chargers." The students promise to be more active.

A month later, the school uses half the water. The headmaster says, "Your mission had a unique impact!" The Water Detectives can't stop smiling.

The End 💧

Small observations can make a big impact.

ملاحظة صغيرة ممكن تعمل فرق كبير.
