

Omar and the Hacked Science Fair

English Mood Academy

yellow = new words red = past verbs

Omar was a curious Prep.2 student and a true digital native. One morning, he was preparing a robot for the school science fair. He was very passionate about software and coding.

While Omar was working, his phone buzzed. Someone tried to hack his account! He felt annoyed and stressed, but he didn't give up.

Omar called his cousin Mona, a computer detective. They lived far apart, but video calls connect them. "Your password isn't secure," she said. "Every click leaves a trace."

"Check your privacy settings properly," Mona said. "Your data and your privacy are private. Protect your digital footprint and your online identity."

Together they looked for clues. The hacker wanted to collect photos of Omar's robot. "Don't put your project at risk," Mona said. "Only use trusted, trustworthy websites, and protect your work."

On the day of the fair, Omar's family drove on the highway. They were driving through a tunnel when they got stuck in a huge traffic jam. The car stopped at every bump.

"How about taking the monorail?" said Dad. It's easy to move around Cairo above the ground. They passed over a new flyover. What a challenge! Omar felt a little discouraged.

At school, his robot didn't work. It was a big obstacle. Omar had to struggle, but with courage and determination he decided to keep going and overcome the problem. He had to persevere.

His friend Ali felt left out, so Omar showed empathy and asked his teacher's permission to include him. The two boys had a lot in common. Together they could handle it. Now the robot could display a message in night mode.

The judges loved Omar's creativity and honesty. "Only an honest student shares the work fairly," said one adult. Omar felt confident. He made a great impression.

The judges gave some recommendations: limit screen time, keep a balance, and don't follow every trend or memes. "Your generation faces many challenges," they said, "but you represent its special identity."

Omar didn't expect to win, but he did! The experience taught him to inspire others. His suggestion to classmates: "Nobody is perfect, and you can't check your phone constantly. Just keep trying!"
